

LINGUISTICS

OSSI IHALAINEN: On the notion “Possible grammatical change”: A look at a perfectly good change that did not quite make it	3
RICHARD J. WATTS: The conjunction that : A semantically empty particle?	13
RAYMOND HICKEY: Syntactic ambiguity in Hiberno-English	39
RAYMOND HICKEY: Remarks on pronominal usage in Hiberno-English	47
STEFAN DYŁA: Why there can be no rule of inversion in EST	55
SVEN JACOBSON: Modality nouns and the choice between to +infinitive and of + ing	61
LILIANE HAEGEMAN : Mid-position of time-adverbials in journalistic prose: An attempt at an explanation	73
PIOTR RUSZKIEWICZ: English phonology and morphology: Some revisions and suggestions	77
PHIL SCHOLFIELD: Vocabulary explanation by paraphrase in context	103
STEFAN DYŁA: Some further evidence against an impersonal passive analysis of Polish impersonal constructions	123
LEOPOLD K. ENGELS: Testing and mastery learning of English vocabulary at university level	129
ANDREW D. COHEN: Introspecting about second language learning	139
W.R. LEE: Providing and avoiding various types of communication activity in the foreign-language classroom	147

LITERATURE

JERZY LIMON: Romeo and Juliet (III, i) - a staging alternative	153
ARLETA ADAMSKA-SALACIAK: Principles and methods for historical linguistics . By Robert J. Jeffers – Ilse Lehiste	161
GRZEGORZ KLEPARSKI: Historical linguistics . By Theodore Bynon	165
ANNA MALICKA: Dutch morphology. A study of word formation in generative grammar . By Geert E. Booij	168
EDMUND GUSSMANN: Juncture. A collection of original papers . By Mark Aronoff – Mary-Louise Kean	172
JANUSZ SEMRAU: Fabulation and metafiction . By Robert Scholes	178
ANDRZEJ JANKOWIAK: Shakespeare’s speaking pictures: Studies in iconic imagery . By John Doeber	182