

ICT in EFL credit test, MA2, 10/06/10
Circle the best answer

1. Marc Prensky talked about "digital ... :

- (a) natives,
- (b) computers,
- (c) machines,
- (d) media,
- (e) methods.

2. Genderism and ageism are two examples of:

- (a) graphical user interfaces,
- (b) student group categorization,
- (c) negative stereotyping,
- (d) ICT use in schools,
- (e) factors influencing EFL.

3. Wordle has some functions of:

- (a) search engine,
- (b) browser,
- (c) concordance,
- (d) hypertext,
- (e) cyberspace.

4. Text corpora are especially useful in:

- (a) the audio-lingual method,
- (b) automatic speech recognition,
- (c) broadband internet access,
- (d) laptops/netbooks,
- (e) data-driven learning.

5. The main advantage of e-dictionaries over traditional ones appears to be in:

- (a) precision,
- (b) size,
- (c) authoritativeness,
- (d) flexibility of access,
- (e) mobility.

6. CALL programs such as Sequitur or Eclipse:

- (a) use a lot of multimedia,
- (b) are based on text manipulation,
- (c) depend on ASR,
- (d) exploit concordancing,
- (e) are best run from a wiki.

7. The term blog comes from:

- (a) banana log,
- (b) best log,
- (c) (inter)net log,
- (d) snob log,
- (e) web log.

Best answers: 1a, 2c, 3c, 4e, 5d, 6b, 7e.